Client Advisor Career Path

Client Advisor

Client Advisors are employed to sell our quality inventory and unique experience. The main objective is to maximize products sold and achieve high customer satisfaction.

Client Advisors interact with customers, display good product knowledge, and offer advice. They also maintain customer relationships and a customer database, generating leads, preparing sales and action strategies, developing client referrals, preparing sales contracts, conducting product training, and ensuring smooth sales processes at all times.

Formal education requirements are not always strict for salespeople; however, we prefer a minimum of a high school diploma and some prior experience in sales. Experience, knowledge, and customer service skills are generally held in higher regard than education in sales roles. To apply go to www.motowerks.com/careers
